Call for integrated approach towards family planning

The Newspaper's Staff Reporter | Published August 6, 2022 | Updated about 7 hours ago

KARACHI: Speakers at a programme have highlighted the impact of high population growth rate on socio-economic development, its linkages with rising poverty and disparity, climate change, high urbanisation and urban migration, all restraining investment in human development.

The meeting on Family Planning (FP) 2030 was organised by the health department in collaboration with different non-governmental organisations.

Speaking at the event held in connection with the World Population Day, Country Adviser Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation Dr Yasmin Qazi shared the historical perspective on family planning in Pakistan and stressed that everyone needed to work collaboratively to address the gaps and fulfill the unmet needs of couples who wanted access to family planning support.

Call for integrated approach to family planning

LAHORE

STRESSING the need for family planning towards achieving national goals and country's development, experts have stressed the need for an integrated approach and putting the agenda at the forefront by introducing reproductive health bill.

These thoughts were expressed in a Family Planning 2030 meeting held in connection with the World Population Day at a local hotel Friday.

Participants in the meeting highlighted the impact of high population growth rate on its socio-economic development and emphasised its linkages with rising poverty and disparity, to climate change, high urbanisation and urban migration, all restraining investment in human development.

Technical Adviser and Focal Person Family Planning 2030 Dr Talib Lashari highlighted key reforms made under the FP2030 working group such as functional integration between the departments of health and population welfare.

Country Adviser of the Gates Foundation Dr Yasmin Qazi shared the historical perspective on family planning in Pakistan and stressed that 'we need to work collaboratively to address the gaps and fulfil the unmet needs of couples who want access to family planning support'.

Country Director of Jhpiego Dr Fauzia Assad said that an integrated multi-sectoral approach was imperative for expansion of family planning choices by scaling up self-injection contraceptives.

She said that 'we need to continue to innovate by inclusion of concepts such as self-care in family planning and in particular focus upon engaging men in the ongoing'.

UNFPA representative Renuka Swami cautioned that with the world population reaching eight billion it underscored the need for moving from number towards making informed choices. She suggested engaging young people in the discourse of family planning.

The meeting concluded with the FP2030 partners reaffirming their support for the unified goal for working collaboratively for balanced population management and resultantly as stronger prosperous Pakistan. —PR

Speaking at the event, Country Advisor Gates Foundation, Dr Yasmin Qazi shared the historical perspective on family planning in Pakistan and stressed that we need to work collaboratively to address the gaps and fulfill the unmet needs of couples who want access to family planning support. For this we need to ensure steady supply of contraceptive commodities supplemented by behavior change engagement and counselling.

Country Director Jhpiego, Dr Fauzia Assad said that an integrated multisectoral approach is imperative for expansion of family planning choices by scaling up self-injection contraceptives. She added that we need to continue to innovate by inclusion of concepts such a self-care in Family Planning and in particular focus upon engaging men in the ongoing discourse of Family Planning.

President Szabist University, Ms. Shehnaz Wazir Ali remarked that joint planning is critical for creating cohesion amongst FP2030 partners and assured galvanizing academia support for partners. Ms. Wazir also appreciated CIP for being acknowledged as global best practice model out of 43 countries.
