Govt urged to enforce education law

By Our Staff Reporter

LAHORE: As the Punjab government has made a law for free and compulsory education across the province, stakeholders, while welcoming this long due legislation towards improving literacy rate, have urged the government to take practical measures to ensure the law is implemented without any delay and targets of sustainable development goals in education sector are achieved.

The provincial government last week had approved the Punjab Free and Compulsory Education (Amendment) Bill, 2022 after an initiative of stakeholders especially educa-tionists, civil society organizations, teachers and parents led by Awaz CDS-Pakistan to make free education compulsory across the province.

“The passage of this law is a great achievement on the part of both government and all stakeholders as it would contribute a lot towards popularizing free and compulsory secondary education across the province,” remarked Chief Executive Awaz CDS-Pakistan Ziaur Rehman.

The Punjab Education Department has instructed all private schools in the province to provide free education to 10 per cent poor and deserving students, which is appreciated by the stakeholders.

LAHORE: As the Punjab government has made a law for free and compulsory education across the province, stakeholders, while welcoming this long due legislation towards improving literacy rate, have urged the government to take practical measures to ensure the law is implemented without any delay and targets of sustainable development goals in education sector are achieved.

The provincial government last week had approved The Punjab Free and Compulsory Education (Amendment) Bill, 2022 after a rigorous initiative of stakeholders especially educationists, civil society organizations, teachers and parents led by Awaz/CDS-Pakistan to make free education compulsory across the province.

"The passage of this law is a great achievement on the part of both government and all stakeholders as it would contribute a lot towards popularizing free and compulsory secondary education across the province," remarked Chief Executive Awaz CDS Pakistan Zia ur Rehman while reacting to the government's major step towards promoting education.

Towards achieving the desired goals of this law, he, however, said the government needs to ensure quick and across the board implementation of this law by taking along all stakeholders through sustainable collaboration.

It is to be mentioned here that the Punjab Education

Department has instructed all private schools in the province to provide free education to ten per cent poor and deserving students, which is appreciated by the stakeholders.

Zia ur Rehman, however, urged the government to ensure that all private schools implement this clause immediately and without any discrimination so that poor but talented students can get quality education at these institutions for better future. He further urged immediate preparations of Rules of Business for the said law. He also appreciated the role of Legislatures Core Group Members on Education especially MIAN Muhammad Shafiq, Ayesha IQBAL, Aisha NAWAZ, Kamwal Liaqat, Uswa Aftab, Shamim Aftab, Seemabia TAHIR and Rahila Khadim Hussain among many others for their regular efforts to ensure the entire process. Giving her input on the subject, Mariam Amjad Khan, Program Manager-Awaz CDS-Pakistan, welcomed the law and suggested the government to establish more and more schools in order to encourage students enrolment ratio.

She mentioned that accessibility, low budget, teachers' improper training and people's socio-economic conditions are affecting literacy rate in the province. However, she stressed the need for extensive efforts from both government and stakeholders to sensitize more and more people on education.
